September 1, 1977

Dear Colleague:

This is to inform you of my change of address as well as a preliminary announcement of the next Statistical Mechanics Meeting which will be held at Rutgers on December 15th and 16th, 1977.

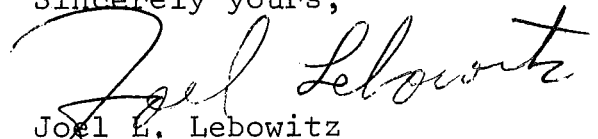

Since transportation to Rutgers is not as convenient as it used to be to Yeshiva in New York, I have decided to enlarge the meeting somewhat, at least for this time, so as to hopefully offer a larger reward-to-effort ratio. It is, therefore, planned to have the meeting organized as follows: Thursday, 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m., Rigorous Statistical Mechanics - in the same very informal style as before (without, however, any attempt to keep it small); 4:00 p.m. - 6:00 p.m., two state-of-art review lectures by Jim Glimm and Elliott Lieb; 6:00 p.m. - 8:00 p.m., dinner; 8:00 p.m. - , review lecture by Michael Fisher (I hope) and general discussion of renormalization group; Friday, 10:00 p.m. - , regular statistical mechanics meeting.

Accommodations for people not living in the neighborhood will be available in nearby motels. In order to get an idea of how many people might need accommodations, I would appreciate it, if you are reasonably certain you are going to attend, if you would drop me a note at your convenience. In any case, I am going to send out another meeting announcement, which will include directions for getting here, some time in October.

Looking forward to seeing you at Rutgers.

With best regards,

Sincerely yours,

Joel L. Lebowitz

P.S. On Friday night Professors Robert Griffiths and Ben Widom will give lectures at the New York Academy of Sciences in New York City.
